TRN Group and COVID-19

2020 has seen unprecedented times with a pandemic we as a nation have not been subjected to in 100 years. As an industry, we are considered essential work and have endeavoured to continue working whilst keeping our workers safe and providing a quality outcome to our clients on time, every time.

Every day on every site, TRN value each and every employee, subcontractor, consultant and visitor to site. With the outbreak of COVID-19 we have had to review our current process of works and work within the NSW Health guidelines, WHO and SafeWork Australia to ensure best practice systems are observed. We have developed a COVID-19 response plan which encompasses a risk assessment of all departments, divisions and individuals within the company.

TRN operate a COVID-19 safe workplace where all workers can feel safe and know that their continued safety is of paramount importance.

TRN will continue to work with Government bodies and our clients to ensure a safe workplace, whilst continuing our long held tradition of building quality infrastructure and communities that will last long into the future and our workers can be proud of being a part of.
